Amp Up Your Proposals with ProposalBuilder!

ProposalBuilder, a new software solution, promises to revolutionize how TEGG and Linc Service contractors build proposals for potential clients will be launching soon!

The program will undergo final field testing throughout March and April, and is expected to be rolled out to franchises and branches beginning in May.

ProposalBuilder allows sales teams to create online sales materials using existing information to create, send, track and execute customized proposals and sales agreements from their office or mobile device.

ProposalBuilder allows on-the-go updates to existing agreements, and lets customers review, interact with and approve sales materials from any device. It also instantly delivers text messages or email alerts to the sales team when clients open proposals, which pages they examine and how much time is spent on each page to give the team insight into clients' specific interests. The program's design also allows for it to be customized to meet each franchise's individual needs.

Since ProposalBuilder is customized for each franchise, you are encouraged to sign up today to be one of the first to receive it. ProposalBuilder has an initial startup cost of $750 per franchise or branch and comes with a single license, and a $63 per month fee for each additional license.

The available launch date will be dependent upon the order of the sign up forms received.
